This letter serves to inform you of this firm's policies of disclosure and privacy with respect to tax return information in connection with the tax services engagement.

DISCLOSURE POLICIES

We shall not knowingly or recklessly disclose the information you furnish us except as provided by law. We may disclose tax return information to an officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service.

If the firm provides software to you that is used in connection with the preparation or filing of your tax return, the tax return preparer may use your tax return information to update your software for the purpose of addressing changes in IRS forms, e-file specifications and administrative, regulatory and legislative guidance, or to test and ensure the software's technical capabilities without the taxpayer's consent. In addition, an officer, employee, or member of the firm may use the tax return information, or disclose the tax return information to another officer, employee, or member of the same firm, for the purpose of performing services that assist in the preparation of, or assist in providing auxiliary services in connection with the preparation of, the taxpayer's tax return, except with respect to such individuals who are located outside the United States or any territory or possession of the United States unless you give consent to such use or disclosure.

In general, an officer, employee, or member of the firm may disclose tax return information to another tax return preparer who is not an officer, employee, or member of the firm located in the United States (including any territory or possession of the United States) for the purpose of preparing or assisting in preparing a tax return, or obtaining or providing auxiliary services in connection with preparation of any tax return, so long as the services provided are not substantive determinations or advice affecting the tax liability reported by taxpayers. A substantive determination involves an analysis, interpretation, or application of the law. The authorized disclosures permitted include one tax return preparer disclosing tax return information to another tax return preparer for the purpose of having the second tax return preparer transfer that information to, and compute the tax liability on, your tax return by means of electronic, mechanical, or other form of tax return processing service. The authorized disclosures permitted also include disclosures by a tax return preparer to an authorized IRS e-file provider for the purpose of electronically filing the return with the IRS. Authorized disclosures also include disclosures to a second tax return preparer for the purpose of making information concerning the return available to the taxpayer. This would include, for example, whether the return has been accepted or rejected by the IRS, or the status of your refund. The firm may not disclose tax return information to a person under contract with the tax return preparer in connection to the programming, maintenance, repair, testing, or procurement of equipment or software used for the purposes of tax return preparation only to the extent necessary for the person to provide the contracted services, and only if the tax return preparer ensures that all individuals who are to receive the disclosures of tax return information receive a written notice that informs them of the applicability of §§6713 and 7216 to them and describes the requirements and penalties of such sections.

In preparing a tax return of a second taxpayer, the firm may use, and may disclose to the second taxpayer in the form in which it appears on the return, any tax return information that the tax return preparer obtained from you if the second taxpayer is related to you, and your tax interest in the information is not adverse to the second taxpayer's tax interest in the information. However, you may expressly prohibit such disclosure or use. For these purposes, a taxpayer is related to another taxpayer if they have any one of the following relationships: husband and wife, child and parent, grandchild and grandparent, partner and partnership, trust or estate and beneficiary.

The disclosure limitations do not apply to the order of any court of record, federal, state, or local; a subpoena issued by a grand jury, federal or state; a subpoena issued by the United States Congress; an administrative order, demand, summons, or subpoena that is issued in the performance of its duties by any federal agency, or a state agency, body, or commission charge under the laws of the state or a political subdivision of the state with the licensing, registration, or regulation of tax return preparers; a written request from a professional association ethics committee or board investigating the ethical conduct of the tax return preparer; or a written request from the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board in connection with an inspection under §105 of such Act, for use in accordance with such Act. The firm may disclose tax return information to an attorney for purposes of securing legal advice; to an employee of the Treasury Department for the use in connection with any investigation of the tax return preparer (including investigations relating to the tax return preparer in its capacity as a practitioner) conducted by the IRS or the Treasury Department; or to any officer of a court for use in connection with proceedings involving the tax return preparer (including proceedings involving the tax return preparer in its capacity as a practitioner), or the return preparer's client before the court or before any grand jury that may be convened by the court.

The firm may use your tax return information, or disclose the information to another officer, employee, or member of the firm, consistent with applicable legal and ethical responsibilities, who may use the tax return information for the purpose of providing other legal or accounting services to you. As an example, an accountant who prepares a tax return for you may use the tax return information, or disclose it to another officer, employee, or member of the firm, for use in connection with the preparation of books and records, working papers, or accounting statements or reports for you. In the normal course of rendering the accounting services to you, the accountant may make the tax return information available to third parties, including stockholders, management, suppliers, or lenders, consistent with the applicable legal and ethical responsibilities, unless you direct otherwise.

The firm may, consistent with the applicable legal and ethical responsibilities, take your tax return information into account, and may act upon it, in the course of performing accounting services for another client. This is permissible when the information is, or may be relevant to the subject matter of the accounting services for the other client, and consideration of the information by those performing the services is necessary for the proper performance of the services. In no event, however, may the tax return information be disclosed to a person who is not an officer, employee or member of the accounting firm, unless the disclosure is exempt from the disclosure provisions.

If, after furnishing tax return information to the firm, you die or become incompetent, insolvent, or bankrupt, or your assets are placed in conservatorship or receivership, the firm may disclose the information to your duly appointed fiduciary of your estate, or to the duly authorized agent of the fiduciary.

The uses and disclosures with respect to software preparation, other tax return preparers within the firm, and tax return preparers located outside the United States, as well as the disclosures to other tax return preparers within the United States and the disclosures to programming and maintenance contractors permitted above apply to the disclosure of any tax return information in the preparation of, or in connection with the preparation of, any tax return under the law of any state or political subdivision thereof, of the District of Columbia, of any territory or possession of the United States, or of a country other than the United States. The nondisclosure and non-use provisions do not apply to the use by the firm of any tax return information in the preparation of, or in connection with the preparation of any tax return of yours under the law of any state or political subdivision thereof, of the District of Columbia, of any territory or possession of the United States, or of a country other than the United States. They also do not apply to the disclosure or use by any tax return preparer of any tax return information in the audit or, or in connection with the audit of, any tax return of yours under the law of any state or political subdivision thereof, the District of Columbia, or any territory or possession of the United States.

The firm may use and disclose tax return information that you provide to us to pay for tax preparation services to the extent necessary to process or collect the payment. For example, if you give us a credit card to pay for tax preparation services, the firm may disclose your name, credit card number, credit card expiration date, and amount due for tax preparation services to the credit card company, as necessary, to process the payment. Any tax return information that you did not give us for the purpose of making payment for tax preparation services may not be used or disclosed by the firm without your prior written consent, unless otherwise permitted under another provision.

The firm may retain your tax return information, including copies of tax returns, in paper or electronic format, prepared on the basis of the tax return information, and may use the information in connection with the preparation of another of your tax returns or in connection with an examination by the Internal Revenue Service of any tax return or subsequent tax litigation relating to the tax return. The firm may compile and maintain a separate list containing solely the names, addresses, email addresses, and phone numbers of taxpayers whose tax returns the firm has prepared or processed. This list may be used by the compiler solely to contact the taxpayers on the list for the purpose of offering tax information or additional tax return preparation services to such taxpayers. The firm may not transfer the taxpayer list, or any part thereof, to any other person unless the transfer takes place in conjunction with the sale or other disposition of the firm's tax return preparation business. A person who acquires a taxpayer list, or part thereof, in conjunction with a sale or other disposition of a tax return preparation business is also subject to these provisions with respect to the list. The term list includes any record or system whereby the names and addresses of taxpayers are retained. These provisions also apply to the transfer of any records and related papers.

The firm may use, for the limited purpose specified, tax return information to produce a statistical compilation of data. The purpose and use of the statistical compilation must relate directly to the internal management or support of the firm's tax return preparation business. The firm may not disclose or use the tax return information in connection with, or in support of, businesses other than tax return preparation. The firm may not disclose the compilation, or any part thereof, to any other person unless disclosure of the statistical compilation is made in order to comply with financial accounting or regulatory reporting requirements, or occurs in conjunction with the sale or other disposition of the firm's tax return preparation business. A person who acquires a compilation, or a part thereof, in conjunction with a sale or other disposition of a tax return preparation business is subject to the same limitations with respect to the compilation as if the acquiring person has compiled it.

The firm may disclose your tax return information for the purpose of a quality or peer review to the extent necessary to accomplish the review. A quality or peer review that is undertaken to evaluate, monitor, and improve the quality and accuracy of a tax return preparer's tax preparation, accounting, or auditing services. A quality or peer review may be conducted only by attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents, and enrolled actuaries who are eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service. Tax return information gathered in conducting a review may be used only for purposes of a review. No tax return information identifying a taxpayer will be disclosed in an evaluative reports or recommendations that may be accessible to any person other than the reviewer or the tax return preparer being reviewed.

The firm is not prohibited from the disclosure of any tax return information to the proper federal, state, or local official in order, and to the extent necessary, to inform the official of activities that may constitute, or may have constituted, a violation of any criminal law or to assist the official in investigating or prosecuting a violation of criminal law. A disclosure made in the bona fide but mistaken belief that the activities constituted a violation of criminal law is not subject to the nondisclosure and non-use rules.

In the event of incapacity or death of the tax return preparer, disclosure of the tax return information may be made for the purpose of assisting the tax return preparer or his legal representative (or the representative of a deceased tax return preparer's estate) in operating the tax return preparer's business.

If you believe your tax return information has been disclosed or used improperly in a manner unauthorized by the law or without your permission, you may contact the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration (TIGTA) by telephone at 1-800-366-4484, or by email at complaints@tigta.gov.
